

House sale helps Tasmanians in need

Colony 47's Moving On Property has sold its first house – helping Tasmanians in crisis.

“We are excited to announce that Moving On property sold its first house last Friday,” said Moving On Property Manager, Pat Fazackerley. One hundred percent of the $6502.50 sales commission will go straight to the Colony 47 programs that assist Tasmanians in crisis.

Moving On Property is an innovative Real Estate Agency operating as part of Colony 47 all profits are directed back into Colony 47 programs that help Tasmanians in crisis.

“Our team sold the property in four weeks and the vendors were ecstatic,” said Mr. Fazackerley.

“Colony 47 has received an extra special bonus from the sale of the house as the new owner has asked us to manage the property as an investment property.

“All property management fees from the rental property will be directed back into Colony 47 programs.”

Colony 47 CEO, Therese Taylor said, “We are really excited by the success of Moving On Property, to have our first sale occur so quickly shows that our team is talented and professional and motivated to assist Tasmanians in need.

“This will be the first of many successes for Colony 47's Moving On Property, the more houses that are sold or properties rented through us will have an enormous positive impact on the services we provide to Tasmanians in crisis.”

“Selling a property is one of the biggest decisions people can make in their lives. Moving On Property offers a real alternative for Tasmanians who want their investment to help others.”
